PLANS COMPLETE FOR STUDENT PARTY

Seen & Heard Around MURRAY

Gene Hendon, Air Force Dental Officer and son of Mr. and Mrs. Carnie Hendon had an experience recently that he and his family will remember for some time.

They are stationed on Formosa and the place was hit by a typhoon.

The local school was just about washed away including books, and all the paraphernalia that goes with a school.

The water finally went down, but a difficult problem still faced the school people. The snakes sought refuge from the water on high places and as a result they have been pulling snakes out of the schools desks for the past week.

You never know when you have it easy.

The trouble people go to to stay dry at a football game. Especially the kind we have been having.

Harry Sparks seemed to be the most successful with his World War II poncho.

Under it he had a plastic outfit that seems to be sort of a long sleeve jacket. Boots finished out his outfit.

The only trouble is when it is as warm as it has been, the plastic, etc. makes you perspire so much, you may as well go ahead and get wet.

A group of boys had the problem solved the best way however. They were dressed in shorts and t-shirts and just sat there in the downpour and enjoyed the game and didn't even try to keep dry.

A mighty mire had been stirred up by the bulldozer at the new hospital site. A lot of dirt has been moved around, then the big rain came, and now there is just plenty of mud.

Dr. and Mrs. F. E. Crawford have been having fun traveling for the past several years.

They have leaned toward the tours apparently where all the itinerary is figured out and reservations, etc. are made by the agency.

At the present time they are enjoying a trip to Europe.

The Don Keller's came back from their tour up and down the Mississippi the other day and found their rooster dead. A golf ball was lying next to the dead rooster so they figured some duffer sliced one into the Keller field and downed the king of the barnyard.

That's a rather difficult thing to do, come to think of it. Roosters are pretty good at ducking rocks, etc. We've heard for a long time that a guinea could dodge a bullet. Never tried it though.

The repaving job on North 15th street and the college area, gave the entire college a more spacious appearance. We hope the state follows through on North 16th as well. The folks on Wal-drop Drive and North 18th street are certainly proud of their new blacktop.

Rummage Sale Will Be Held Next Week

The Garden Department of the Murray Woman's Club will sponsor a rummage sale in the former location of Judy's Beauty Shop in the Peoples Bank building on Saturday, September 29, from 7 a.m. to 12 noon or until all things are sold.

Mrs. James Byrn asks that the members bring their items to the location on Friday. If unable to bring them, members are asked to call Mrs. Byrn or Mrs. Harold Douglass.

Married Fifty Years

MR. AND MRS. BERNICE B. BOYD

Mr. and Mrs. Bernice B. Boyd of Route 1, Lynn Grove, Kentucky, will celebrate their Golden Wedding Anniversary with a reception at their home on September 30, 1962, between the hours of 2:00 p.m. and 5:00 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd were married on Sunday, September 29, 1912, at Fulton, Kentucky.

Attendants to the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. J. Clifton Boyd, Walter Jones, and Myrtle Buzzell. Mr. Boyd is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Louis Gray Boyd and Mrs. Boyd is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Jefferson Turnbow.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd are the parents of one daughter and two sons. They are: Mrs. Sylvester Paschall of Route 4, Murray, Kentucky, Nelson Boyd of Sedalia, Kentucky, and Louis J. Boyd of Knoxville, Tennessee. They have eleven grandchildren. All relatives and friends are cordially invited to attend.

Woman's Club Holds General Meet Monday

The first general meeting of the Murray Woman's Club was held Monday, September 17th at 8:30 p.m. in the Clubhouse. The invocation was given by Mrs. Robert W. Huie, followed by the pledge of allegiance to the flag by Mrs. James Rudy Albritten. Special music for the occasion was rendered by the guest speaker, Mrs. W. H. Beaman, District Governor of Paducah. Her topic was "Today's Woman".

She spoke of the transformation period of women in government, science, business and education. She stated the change in women's lives in the home had gone from the farm, to the garden, to the deep freeze. The question of why women join clubs was expressed as "a passion for getting things done".

Mrs. Lowry announced the District Board Meeting to be held October 26th at the Kentucky Village Inn. All members were urged to attend.

Calloway High PTA Has Meet On Monday

Mrs. Billy Murdock, chairman of the high school services PTA committee, presented a get acquainted program at the Calloway County High School Parent-Teacher Association meeting held on Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the school.

"Our School and the PTA" was the theme of the program. Those participating in the symposium were Principal William Miller, School Supervisor Edward Curd, Superintendent Jeffrey, School Counselor Guy Lovins, Board Member John Grogan, and PTA president Evelyn Palmer.

Mrs. Josiah Darnell led in group singing with Miss Toni Scruggs at piano and leading the pledge of allegiance. Gene Ed Watson gave the devotion.

During the business session the budget was read by second vice-president Mrs. T. G. Curd and adopted by the PTA. The fifty dollars going to the County Public Library for operation of the school book mobile service. The high school project will be buying a drinking fountain for the gym and helping other school organizations to beautify the school grounds.

Mrs. Lubie McDaniel, publications chairman, urged each one to subscribe to the National PTA magazine. The membership chairman, Mrs. Paul D. Jones, asked each person to join and to give their child's name. Each home teacher is selecting a room representative, student, and parent to help enroll and encourage parents to attend the meetings.

A tea was given in honor of Principal Miller and his wife following the meeting. The teachers were in the receiving line to get acquainted with the parents. Hostesses were Messrs and Mesdames Lowell Key, Lubie McDaniel, Bryan Galloway, Glen Kelso, and Mrs. Lubie Cooper.

Explosion Rocks Area On East Side Of Berlin Wall

By JOSEPH B. FLEMING
United Press International

BERLIN (UPI) — An explosion of unknown origin rocked the vicinity of the Brandenburg Gate in Berlin Tuesday night, causing a Berlin wall Tuesday night. West Berlin police said a red flare soon after the explosion and five Russian soldiers drove up in a truck. There was no clue as to what caused the explosion or why Russian soldiers appeared on the scene instead of the usual East German police, according to West Berlin police.

Earlier, communist police threw 25 tear gas grenades over a barbed wire barrier on the French sector border into West Berlin when a West Berlin loudspeaker truck drove along the border broadcasting anti-communist statements.

West Berlin police said they were retreating by lobbying 25 of their own tear gas grenades over the barrier at the communist police. The latest incidents followed the disclosure Tuesday that 29 East Germans had fled through a "luxury tunnel" into West Berlin last Saturday.

The possibility of a new Soviet protest was raised by official West Berlin approval of the tunnel and apparent Allied knowledge that it was being built.

It was the biggest mass escape since the communist wall was built more than a year ago. The tunnel was built by West Berlin engineering students and equipped with electric lights, air conditioning and an alarm system.

West Berlin officials said even more than 29 East Germans might have used the tunnel without their knowledge before it was flooded by rain early this week.

Decks Cleared For Naming Rockefeller

By JOHN L. CONSIDINE
United Press International
BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — The Republican state convention cleared the decks today to nominate Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller for a second-term bid and a possible nudge toward the White House.

The first order of business for the convention's final day was the nomination of candidates to fill statewide elective posts. Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson was nominated for a second term along with Atty. Gen. Louis Lefkowitz.

Rockefeller will be nominated for a second four-year bid for governor tonight.

The pattern of nominations was set Tuesday night when U.S. Sen. Jacob K. Javits was tapped to seek another six-year term as a senior senator from New York.

The nomination was by acclamation.

U.S. Sen. Kenneth B. Keating nominated Javits and noted that he had topped New York City Mayor Robert Wagner by more than 400,000 votes.

In his acceptance speech Javits promised a "hard hitting" campaign. He said the Kennedy administration needs more Republicans in Washington not Democrats.

Javits said the Republicans would help the President rescue his "uncertain administration and fill the void of leadership in Washington."

Last Wednesday Was A Big Day For Mr. L. E. Brown

Mr. L. E. Brown observed his 90th birthday last week on Wednesday. He was born on September 12, 1872 in Madison County, Tennessee.

Moving to Murray in 1937, the year he retired, he has been busy at his hobby of gardening and usually keeps his neighbors well supplied with succulent vegetables from his garden.

Mr. Brown lives on Poplar street, next to the Murray High school field and he has been come well known to the students down through the years. He is known as Pop Brown to his many friends who attend Murray High and he always looks forward to speaking to them as they gather for classes each day.

Mr. Brown attended school in Madison County, then later Peabody Institute in Jackson, Tennessee. He also attended the McLeansville Collegiate Institute in McLeansville. After teaching school in Tennessee for several years, he was married in 1904 to Miss Elizabeth Terril Fry. The couple has two children: Murray Lee, a nurse at Murray State College and Malcolm Brown, pharmacist in Paris, Tennessee; two grandchildren Mrs. Kent Edwards of South Bend, Indiana and Kelly Mack Brown of Paris; three great grandchildren Patricia Sue, Kent Jr., and Mark Allen Edwards of South Bend.

Following his teaching career Mr. Brown worked for the KC Railroad as a cabinet maker, was a farmer for some time, then became a rural mail carrier where he continued in this vocation for twenty years at Frezavent, Tennessee.

Mr. Brown is a member of the Seventh Day Adventist Church and he and Mrs. Brown observed their Golden Wedding Anniversary in 1954.

He has been quite active, but this summer he slowed down on some of his activities.

CURING ADVISORY

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — The tobacco curing advisory for Kentucky and southern Indiana by the U.S. Weather Bureau with the cooperation of the University of Kentucky and Purdue University.

A few scattered showers may occur in the western end of Kentucky this afternoon and early evening. Otherwise the low humidity that prevailed during the daytime Tuesday will continue today and Thursday.

Unless rain is falling in your location, barns should be opened from mid-morning to late afternoon and closed at night.

Mental Health Seminar Will Be Held Here

The Calloway County High School Parent-Teacher Association is sponsoring a Mental Health Seminar with the Calloway County Mental Health Association as the co-sponsor.

A series of six lessons will be held at the Calloway High School on Thursday, September 20, from 3:15 to 5 p.m. and from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

Other sessions will be held on September 27, October 4, 11, 18, and 25. Speakers will be trained personnel from the Western State Hospital and the Louisville State Mental Health Department, and Dr. Ralph Tessenor of Murray State College.

Mrs. Pierce McDougal, Mental Health Chairman of the PTA, urges all teachers and parents to attend these educational sessions. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Hot Dogs, Cold Drinks And Popcorn Readied For Event

The second annual "Get Acquainted" party for the students of Murray State College will be held next Tuesday September 25 on the downtown court square. The event is sponsored by all the merchants of the city as a special welcome to the students who attended Murray State.

The party will begin at 7:00 p.m. next Tuesday and will continue to 10:30 p.m.

Free cold drinks, popcorn, and hot dogs will be provided for the students and Jim Jennings and his Combo will be on hand to provide music for dancing in the street.

Invited to the party are all of the students of Murray State College and the instructors.

The party is an expression of appreciation from the merchants of the city to the students, for their coming to Murray State College.

No downtown stores will be open during the three and one-half hour party.

A spokesman said "We are not trying to sell anything at this party, we just want the students to know that we appreciate their being in Murray and that they are welcome."

No particular organization is sponsoring the party for the students. It is an effort on the part of all the merchants that business people of Murray.

Last year the party was a big success with two sides of the square being used. Many expressions of appreciation were heard from the students who attended.

The party this year is expected to be even larger since an increased enrollment at Murray State is expected. Also more students are expected to come to the party.

Last fall at the first party, tables were set up the length of the inside of the court square on the west side, and hot dogs were served by the people of Murray. Cold drinks were also dispensed and pop corn poppers were placed at strategic points.

Business men not only financed the venture, but also were on hand to serve.

The block long tables this year will be on the west side of the square next to the business side. Last year it was on the inside of the square.

At a meeting this morning it was emphasized that as many business people as possible should be on hand to help serve. Contributions have been taken up during the past week to finance the party, however all business people are urged to be on hand whether they make a contribution or not, in order to help serve.

Committee named to handle the various phases of the get acquainted party are as follows:

Dance committee: James Johnson, Chuck Simons, Joe Littleton, Drink committee: Al Lindsey, chairman.

Popcorn and hot dogs, James Garrison and Larry Hurt. Street and stands, Maurice Ryan, chairman.

Window signs and stage, P. A. system, James Johnson.

Finance, Ed Settle. Traffic and safety, Flavio Robertson and Burman Parker.

Bus arrangements, Preston Ordway. Cigarettes, Charles Johnson.

Publicity, James C. Williams and Chuck Shuffelt.

Welfare Hike Is Seen In Kentucky

FRANKFORT, Ky. (UPI) — Kentucky public welfare recipients will receive an average of $5 more per month beginning Oct. 1, state Economic Security Commissioner Earle V. Powell announced Tuesday.

Powell said the hike is the result of a welfare revision law passed by Congress last July and authorizing a change in the federal-state matching funds program.

Under the new formula, the federal government will provide 82 percent of the first $35 for each welfare recipient and 65 percent of the remainder.

Consequently, nearly $4 million extra per year will be spent on public assistance programs in the commonwealth.

Covered by the new formula are those in the categories of old age assistance, the needy blind, and aid to the totally and permanently disabled.

The average old age monthly payment will be increased from $50.19 to $55.19. Blind payments will go up an average of $5 to $62.54, and the permanently and totally disabled will get $63.98. But Powell cautioned that not

Ted Kennedy Is Winner In Race For Nomination

By HARRY FERGUSON
United Press International

BOSTON (UPI) — Ted Kennedy predicted confidently today he would move into the Senate seat his brother vacated to become president of the United States. His Republican opponent in November will be George Cabot Lodge.

The election battle will be a renewal of a feud between two political dynasties that has stretched over five decades.

The youngest member of the Kennedy clan, taking his first plunge into national politics at the age of 30, set in a motion a tidal wave of votes that swamped Edward J. McCormack, his opponent for the Democratic senatorial nomination. The tide was running so strongly against McCormack that he conceded defeat Tuesday night when returns were in from only one-fifth of the state's 1,988 precincts. The crusher came when Ted carried Eddie's own home ward in Boston.

A few months later Kennedy, in a voice that sounds remarkably like that of the President of the United States, paid a neat tribute to McCormack and then predicted: "We will carry the battle forward to victory in November."

Lodge, son of Henry Cabot Lodge, defeated Congressman Laurence Curtis for the Republican senatorial nomination.

Complete returns gave:

Kennedy 556,206
McCormack 246,542
Lodge 226,414
Curtis 184,181

The dynasty issue is a dead duck in Massachusetts. The Lodge dynasty is even older than the Kennedy one.

The Kennedys and the Lodges have been tangling at the polls since 1916. Lodge's great-grandfather defeated Ted's grandfather, John F. Fitzgerald, for the Senate. President Kennedy defeated Lodge's father, Henry Cabot Lodge, for the U.S. Senate in 1962. The President won another victory over the same Lodge, who ran for vice president on the Republican ticket in 1960.

Both Lack Experience

The issue of youth and inexperience also is dead. Lodge is 35 years old and his experience consists of being an assistant secretary of labor in the Eisenhower administration. Kennedy's experience consists of being an assistant district attorney of Suffolk County, Mass. Both of them are over six feet tall with movie star profiles, and many women in Massachusetts are going to have cardiac flutters when faced with the cruel decision between them in November.

Lodge had an uphill road to victory. He fell behind Curtis early in the evening, then went 100 votes ahead and around midnight began to pull steadily in front.

McCormack, nephew of House Speaker John McCormack, lost with grace and urged his followers to get behind the Kennedy ticket in the fall.

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

BERLIN — A West Berlin official, commenting on expected Soviet protests over a escape from East Berlin through a tunnel built with apparent Allied knowledge: "Building a tunnel is not a crime."

Memphis, Tenn. — Negro James H. Meredith, told that U.S. marshals will escort him when he enrolls at the all-white University of Mississippi this week:

"I don't think I'll need any federal marshals. I believe Mississippi will protect its citizens. . . I don't expect anybody to send me a letter inviting me to join any fraternities."

WASHINGTON — Rep. Cornelius Gallagher, D-N.J., planning to fight for restoration of some of the $1.1 billion chopped from the foreign aid bill by a House committee: "The United States might be better off without a foreign aid program if the proper funds cannot be provided."

NEW YORK — Actress Jayne Mansfield, dodging questions about her separation from her husband, musician Mickey Hargitay:

"You marry him for two years and you tell me what went wrong with the marriage."

Ten Years Ago Today

Bobby Key, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Key, was the object of an intensive search last night by the Murray Rescue Squad. He was found later playing football on Olive Street.

Bobby had gone hunting and had not returned, and the Rescue Squad was asked to assist in finding him. The fire department was called to the home of Buster Bumpus on South Second Street Monday afternoon to extinguish a fire, which was believed to be caused by a kerosene stove explosion.

Hubert F. Sorell, pastor of the Salem Baptist Church, will be the speaker Saturday night at the monthly Calloway County Baptist Youth rally.

Kentucky College Football Enjoys Fine Season Opening

By United Press International

The 1962 Kentucky college football season was barely started today but it may already have had one of its finest moments.

That came Saturday night when the Louisville Cardinals, after fighting from two touchdowns behind against tough Wichita, dis-trained to settle for an easy tie and gambled successfully on a two-point conversion to beat the Shockers, 21-20, in the final three minutes of play.

It was a successful opening weekend for Kentucky teams generally, with four of the five teams making their debuts defeating out-of-state opponents.

Western Kentucky, showing a dangerous aerial attack and capitalizing on the opposition's errors, drubbed Southeast Missouri, 28-7; Georgetown blanked Memphis Navy, 22-0, with Charley Gregory scoring three touchdowns, and Kentucky State splashed to an 18-6 win over Lane Tenn. College in the rain.

Only Murray State failed to click, falling to East Tennessee, 63, in a game in which all the points came on field goals.

Louisville's Cardinals might have whipped the defending Missouri Valley Conference champs handily, but they handed Wichita two quick touchdowns on an 83-yard return of the opening kickoff and a 44-yard gallop off a fake punt.

Calland and Compton Score

Even after Lee Calland went 45 yards for one touchdown and Larry Compton bucked three yards for another in the third period, the Cards were down, 20-13, with about five minutes to go.

Quarterback Johnny Giles then got a drive rolling and climaxed it by tossing five yards to end Tom Montgomery for a tying touchdown with 2:53 to play.

Then, going for broke, Giles sent Compton crashing over tackle for the winning two points.

With 317-pound Ken Kortas anchoring the line, the Cards out-firsted Wichita, 16 to 8, yard return of the opening kickoff and a 44-yard gallop off a fake punt.

Fullback John Burt opened the scoring for Western on a nine-yard jaunt in the second period, and when Southeast Missouri fumbled away the ensuing kickoff, the Toppers were right back in the end zone on a 21-yard pass by Bill Straut. Quarterback Jim Daily hit for two touchdowns in the third period to wrap it up.

Baker's Boots Win

East Tennessee's quarterback Jimmy Baker booted a 30-yard field goal in the last 10 seconds of the first half saw it matched by Murray's Harry Kotsides in the third period, then kicked another from 20 yards out with just seven seconds to play to beat Murray.

Next weekend will see the season open full blast with all nine Kentucky college teams in action.

Top attraction, of course, will be Kentucky's first game under head coach Charlie Bradshaw as Florida State's ambitious Seminole test the thin Wildcat ranks at Lexington Saturday night.

Louisville will make its first home appearance against Western Michigan of the Mid-America Conference; Western Kentucky will move into Ohio Valley Conference competition at East Tennessee; Morehead faces a rugged season and conference opener at Middle Tennessee; Eastern Kentucky opens away from home at Tampa; Murray tucks to Western Illinois in quest of its first victory; Centre will be host to Denison College of Ohio, Georgetown plays at Hanover, and Kentucky State will make its first home showing against Winston-Salem. The last two games mentioned will be played Saturday afternoon, the others Saturday night.

ASKS REFUGEE AID

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department has asked Congress for $350,000 to help Cuban refugees in Spain, and Latin America, and slow down their flow to the United States.

Testimony made public today by a House appropriations subcommittee showed there were an estimated 25,000 to 30,000 Cubans in Spain and Latin America. U. S. officials said they hoped to persuade as many of them as possible to stay there rather than come to this country.

LOSE TWO PLAYERS

BUFFALO, N. Y. (UPI) — The Buffalo Bills lost Monte Crockett with a broken nose and Carl Taseff with a hip injury while bowing to the Houston Oilers, 28-23, in their American Football League season opener.

CHAPTER 20
"TO SAY the best thing for us I do is to keep quiet until we're ready to move," Fern O'Hara said. "If Sheriff Baines knows that we're aware of what's going on, we'll never get out of Death Valley alive. I guess you know that."

"I know it," Thorpe McAlfee agreed. "Were you in Piedmont the other night?"

Fern looked at him curiously. "I didn't have any reason to go into Piedmont," she said. "Why do you ask?"

Thorpe shook his head. "Marcia Reynolds at the Birdcage said that a friend told her he'd seen you in town. He must have been mistaken."

"I rode back to our relay station the other day," Fern explained. "To see how things were going on, but that's as far as I went." Changing the subject, she said, "What are we going to do about the boiler back in the sand dunes?"

Thorpe had been thinking about the boiler, also. He said, "We could move the boiler up here, and Sheriff Baines would never know it was gone. We could be refitting borax, and he'd be sitting back in Piedmont thinking he had us shut down."

"He'll find out," Fern said. "When we start to haul."

"By that time," Thorpe told her, "we'll have worked out something to catch him."

"Just how?" Fern asked curiously.

"I could go in to Piedmont," Thorpe said, "and spread the word that we are refitting borax and getting ready to haul. We'd let it out that we had discovered the wagon and the lost boiler by accident. Baines would hear the news, and I'm sure he'd make plans to raid the first rig we sent in."

"Then you could be waiting for him," Fern said thoughtfully.

"If we knew he was coming," Thorpe said, "we could arrange to give him a pretty good reception. If he was caught red-handed raiding a Last Chance Borax wagon, there couldn't be any doubt who's been causing all the trouble in the valley."

"It should work," Fern nodded in agreement. "But in the meantime I wouldn't tell anyone what I know, not even your friend Jim Varney. His tongue might slip, and if Baines once gets word that he's under suspicion, he'll either put out quickly or he'll wreck us completely here in the valley."

Thorpe finished his second cup of coffee. He didn't like the idea of keeping Jim Varney in the dark, but Fern was right. If no one except themselves knew about Ed Baines, there was little chance that it would leak out.

"You'd better get some sleep now," Fern advised. "I'll take a few men and mules and go down and pick up the wagon. The sooner we get the boiler up here, the quicker we can have it set up. Tibbs has been on pins and needles since you've been gone."

Thorpe nodded. "You shouldn't have any trouble locating the wagon," he said. "and Baines and his men will be gone."

He turned in as Fern went off to have some of the mules harnessed, and slept in one of the tents. He didn't know how tired he was until he'd dropped down on a blanket on the sandy floor. He immediately fell asleep, and it was late afternoon when he awakened.

Joe Tibbs said to him when he came out of the tent, "Miss O'Hara's gone after the boiler you left back at the relay station. Said she wouldn't be back until tomorrow morning sometime."

Thorpe nodded. "How soon can we start to refit borax?" he asked. "after you have your boiler set up?"

Tibbs shrugged. "Ready to move now," he stated. "The Chinamen are still bringing the stuff in. We have a good load already, and we'll keep pushing them."

Thorpe said, "We'll need all the borax we can get our hands on once we start to haul."

"You figure we'll have any more from that bunch raided us the other night?" Tibbs wanted to know.

"May be trouble," Thorpe told him. "Post a double guard every night. We'll be ready for them when they come again."

FERN O'HARA rode in the next morning with the wagon and the boiler. She'd had no difficulty finding the wagon back in the dunes, and she was in high spirits as she came into the camp.

"Baines and his crew made one mistake," Thorpe told her. "They didn't think I'd come back that night."

Fern had a message for him from Jim Varney back in Piedmont.

"Varney sent a man out from Piedmont last night," she explained. "The rider reached the relay station early this morning. I sent him back, telling I'd give you the message. Varney wants you to come in to town right away. It seems there is some difficulty about the Birdcage. There are papers to be signed, I believe. The messenger didn't have too much information, except that Jim Varney wants you in Piedmont as soon as possible."

Thorpe frowned, and Fern said, "If you go into Piedmont you can keep an eye on Baines and perhaps see what he's up to. You might learn something if you talk to him. We're setting a double guard every night now, and I don't think anyone will try to attack us here."

Fern's arguments were quite convincing. There wasn't too much he could do in the valley now. Joe Tibbs would supervise the operation of the refinery, and Fern herself would see to it that the Chinamen kept busy in the salt marshes.

"I'll go in," Thorpe agreed. He had an early supper with the crew that evening, and as soon as the sun had gone down, he saddled the buckskin and rode out of camp. He took an extra mule as a pack horse, both Tibbs and Fern O'Hara having given him a list of things they needed.

Thorpe was an hour away from the Last Chance claim when the pack mule started to set up. The animal had been balky since they'd left the camp, and Thorpe pulled up the buckskin and dismounted, thinking perhaps the mule had a loose shoe.

He was examining the mule when he thought he saw a sudden movement a hundred yards or so up the road and along the right side.

The night was dark, but in the starlight Thorpe was positive he'd seen a slight movement as if someone had moved from a fixed position. Growing, Thorpe looked up the road as he worked with the bit in the mule's mouth. He was wondering if his eyes had deceived him.

Walking the two animals off the road and into the shadows of a clump of mesquite growing nearby, he tied them. Then, crouching low, he moved around the mesquites, swinging away from the borax road. He'd seen the movement about a hundred yards up the road, and when he made his detour he circled one hundred and fifty yards, moving above the spot. Then, dropping on hands and knees, he started to crawl forward slowly.

After going twenty or thirty yards, Thorpe pulled up. He lay on his stomach, listening carefully. He heard nothing, and he could see nothing from that point, either, but very distinctly he caught the faint aroma of tobacco smoke.

Somewhere just ahead of him, probably concealed along the road by high boulders, a man was smoking a cigarette.

Two men stand in Thorpe's way, so two men may have to die. "Last Chance Valley" continues here tomorrow.

Arts And Crafts Club Meets At Home Of Mrs. Wade Crawford

Mrs. Wade Crawford entertained the members of the Arts and Crafts Club at her home on Olive Street on Wednesday afternoon at two-thirty o'clock.

The president, Mrs. George Gatlin, presided at the meeting. Mrs. Charlie Farmer and Mrs. Mayne Randolph were appointed on the flower committee and Mrs. C. B. Ford as the reporter.

The history of the club was read by Mrs. J. M. Linn, secretary. The club voted to make new amendments to the by-laws. On display at the meeting were some fancy needle work by the members. Arrangements of fall flowers were placed at vantage points in the house.

The hostess served a dessert course to the twenty members, including two new members, Mrs. Burie Cooper and Mrs. C. B. Ford.

all recipients will get a $5 increase—some will get more, others less. But nearly everyone can expect at least an additional $3 to $4 increase.

The larger increases will be based on the greatest need. Payments in a fourth public assistance category—aid to dependent children—are not affected by the new formula.

However, a revision of the law will allow both parents in some of the families to be counted toward federal financial participation. This will put about $1 more per month per family into the program.

Affected by the revision are only those families in which both parents are living in the home with the children who are deprived of financial support because of the incapacity or unemployment of the father.

Powell said that the hope now is to give each family in such a situation about $2.50 more per month. He said that state plans to add $1.50 to the $1 provided by federal funds.

Powell added that all state funds being added to the assistance program are monies which have been saved by his department. He said that careful administration of the funds appropriated for the operation of the department have enabled the increase to be put into effect at this time.

Another provision of the new Welfare Law gives the department authority to set aside income earned by children in aid to dependent children cases for the future needs of the child.

The department also will be able to take legal action against parents or guardians who might misuse funds.

The first telegraph ticker which successfully printed type was invented by David Edwards Hughes of Louisville.
